Community organiser

The community organiser is a point of reference for those who need practical and informative support.

Their role is to help citizens find their way around the social welfare and health services available in the area, making it easier for them to access useful resources and information.

They can visit you at home or offer you direct and personalised telephone assistance.

How we can help you

L'animatore di comunità

The community organiser is at your disposal to:

- give you information about social, welfare and health services
- help you fill in forms and deal with bureaucracy (for example ISEE, disability application, booking medical appointments, delivering documents)
- assist you with minor administrative tasks in offices and with service providers
- offer you practical solutions for coping with everyday difficulties

You can trust us

Community organisers carry an official ID card. If in doubt, call the PUA freephone number 800 066 214 to confirm their identity.
